To that end, all employees have a responsibility and an affirmative duty to report actual or suspected wrongful conduct, and the University has a responsibility to make sure that they can do so without fear of retaliation or reprisal. All Such reports that are filed in good faith shall be accepted, kept confidential to the extent possible in conformance with applicable laws, regulations and University policies and procedures, evaluated fairly and addressed promptly and appropriately.

The system accommodates callers in 150 languages as well as callers with special needs.

- b. Global Compliance logs each and every report. Whether you use the Integrity Hotline Phone number or website the Rowan University-Integrity Hotline allows you to report issues and concerns you may have (regarding but not limited to), unethical behavior, inappropriate conduct, bullying, harassment, and any other violation to Rowan University policies. This reporting process is secure and confidential. The organization prioritizes the speed with which reports must be addressed as follows:

INTEGRITY HOTLINE INVESTIGATION PROCESS

NOTE: These investigative processes are general guidelines. Depending on the policy being investigated, the investigation process may be different. The Integrity Hotline can be used by employees and students as well as external visitors, and vendors. The following investigation process guidelines do not apply to students. For information on student-on-student case please visit the Student Handbook.

1. Hotline Reports

- a. A committee of Rowan University employees reviews each and every Hotline report. Once the report has been reviewed, the case is assigned to an investigator.
- b. The objective of the investigation is to determine the credibility of the Reporter (employee who notified the Hotline) and reported allegation. If the Reporter has revealed his/her identity, the Investigator will contact the Reporter via telephone or email. The Investigator will ask the Reporter for available dates and times to schedule an interview to acquire more information about the reported allegation.
- c. It is the interviewed employee's responsibility to notify his/her superiors of the interview date and time. The Investigator will attempt to conduct the interview at a Rowan University location that will allow the employee to be relaxed and forthcoming.
- d. If the Reporter did not reveal their identity, the Investigator will attempt to communicate with the anonymous Reporter, utilizing the Rowan University Integrity Hotline website: www.rowan.edu/integrityline

2. Communication with Reporter

- a. To effectively conduct an investigation, it is crucial for the anonymous Reporter to maintain communication with the case Investigator by utilizing the Communication with Reporter section of the website. The Reporter will need to know the case number and PIN for his/her case to continue communications with the Investigator. Without key information, it may be very difficult to effectively investigate the credibility of the allegation and may result in the allegation being classified as "unsubstantiated".
- b. It is very important to note, that any case may be re-opened, if additional information is provided.
- c. At the inception of an investigation, when appropriate, the assigned Investigator may notify the Vice President that oversees the area under investigation.

3. Internal Investigation Interview(s)

- a. Internal Interview Introduction (information provided below is for guidance purposes only and specific questions and areas of inquiry may vary based on the subject matter of the allegation and the specific policy involved)
 - The Investigator will send a request to the employee to be interviewed labeled "CONFIDENTIAL INTERVIEW". The employee will be requested to provide times they will be available for the interview. The employee will be requested to notify their department supervisor about the interview request. If the employee does not feel comfortable notifying their department supervisor, they may elect to notify the individual their supervisor reports to, or ask the Investigator to notify departmental management. The Investigator will attach the Investigation process to the CONFIDENTIAL INTERVIEW invitation to provide the employee the opportunity to review.
 - The Interviewed employee will be provided with the New Jersey State Policy Prohibiting Discrimination in the Workplace as well as Rowan University Workplace Violence Policy or any other policy related to the complaint, which includes instructions regarding the Confidentiality, Prohibition against Retaliation of the information discussed during the interview and the employee's Weingarten Rights (for union employees). Employees who are members of the union may request union representation during the interview.
 - The Interviewed employee will be asked to read and sign the confidentiality form.
 - The Investigator's role will be explained to the employee.
 - Interview ground rules will be explained, including, but not limited to answering the questions to the best of the interviewed employee's ability. Please note that it is acceptable if the employee does not remember or does not know the answer to the question but inform the investigator of that.
 - The Investigator will determine the value of information reported by third parties, depending upon the allegation and how it relates to the case.
- b. Overview of the Allegation
 - The allegations will be reviewed with the reporter and the Investigator will ask for more in depth information regarding the allegation.
 - The Investigator will request any evidence associated with the allegation from any involved employee or department.
 - The Reporter will be asked; what are your expectations or desired outcome to resolve this allegation.

c. Interview Conclusion

- The Investigator will ask the employee if he/she has witnessed or has knowledge of, any other unethical, fraudulent, discriminatory or criminal behaviors during his/her employment at Rowan University.
- The Investigator will review the Confidentiality statement and the No Retaliation Policy with the employee. The employee will be given the Investigator's contact information, in case the employee remembers additional information related to the case or if he/she feels that he or she is experiencing adverse employment consequences based upon involvement in the investigation.

d. The Investigator will interview employees who witnessed the incident or may have additional foundational knowledge related to the allegation. The allegation will not necessarily be disclosed during interviews performed to acquire foundational knowledge; only relevant information to that witness will be shared.

e. The investigator will meet with the respondent/accused and review and discuss the allegations. A statement will be taken and incorporated into the investigative report.

4. Investigation Analysis

- The Investigator will review all of the information provided in the interviews and related evidence to determine if the allegation violates Rowan University Policy, New Jersey State and/or federal laws or regulations.
- If the facts of the case reveal a violation, then the allegation is considered substantiated.
- If the facts of the case reveal there has not been a violation, the allegation is considered unsubstantiated.
- If the facts of the case, do not allow the Investigator to determine the credibility of the allegation, it is considered inconclusive.

5. Investigation Conclusion

- Depending under what policy the investigation is taking place, the Investigator will discuss the Investigational conclusion(s) on allegations that have been substantiated only with the department management or director. The Investigator may provide recommendations to the department management. The Office of Compliance & Corporate Integrity will request a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) from the involved department and may audit the effectiveness of the CAP, after it has been implemented. (Please note this does not always apply to Discrimination, Workplace Violence, or Title IX investigations.)
- The Investigator will communicate to the Reporter, thanking them for being forthcoming and that the investigation has been closed.
- The Investigator may also be required/requested to notify Rowan's Office of General Counsel, Labor Relations Office, the Dean, President and/or Rowan University Board of Trustees Audit Committee, when appropriate.
- If criminal behavior has been substantiated, the Investigator will notify the Office of General Counsel and/or law enforcement (when appropriate).
- If the allegation has been determined to be inconclusive or unsubstantiated, the case will be closed. If in the future, additional information is provided relating to the allegation, the case may be re-opened. Please note that in cases of inconclusive or unsubstantiated determinations concerns may be identified relating to process or procedure. In such cases, the investigator will alert appropriate university administrators of such concerns. Further, at the conclusion of the investigation, the Investigator will alert the department Vice President or other appropriate administrator that the matter has been concluded.
- In order to preserve the integrity of the investigation, only the Executive Vice President and Rowan General Counsel's Office will have access to the full report of findings.

6. Participation in an Internal Investigation

- i. Noted previously, employees are obligated to report concerns relating to illegal and unethical conduct as well as potential policy violations. Such information is vital in ensuring that Rowan operates in a way that is compliant with applicable law and satisfies its mission.

- ii. As such, Rowan University expects all employees to cooperate fully with internal investigations. If the employee refuses to cooperate with internal investigations, the employee may be subject to disciplinary actions, up to and including termination in accordance with applicable policies.

7. Protection from Reprisal or Retaliation

- a. Rowan University prohibits retaliation, harassment, intimidation or discrimination against individuals who make good faith reports of suspected wrongdoing. Any employee found to have retaliated against anyone who has made a good faith report shall be subject to appropriate disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. Good faith reports that are not substantiated are protected under this policy.
- b. Complaints made in bad faith using falsified information are contrary to the intent and spirit of this policy, and may subject the reporter to disciplinary action up to and including termination.
- c. To make reports of immediate threats or danger, call 911. The Rowan University Alert Line should not be used for emergencies.

10. Frequently Asked Questions:

- a. How does the Anonymous Reporter, continue to communicate with the Investigator and still be anonymous?
 - The Rowan Integrity Hotline website (Communication with the Reporter section) provides an area for the Reporter to communicate with the Investigator anonymously. When the Reporter submits a case, they are provided a case number and PIN, which allows them access to this area. The Reporter will be required to use the case number and PIN to access the case in the future. It is very important to maintain this communication, if the Reporter wants to see resolution to their allegation. Investigators will always have more questions.
- b. How does the Reporter know about the investigational findings?
 - If the allegation has been substantiated, the Reporter should notice changes within their department and may be requested to assist to resolve the allegation.
 - If the allegation has been unsubstantiated or inconclusive, the Reporter may not notice any changes within their department.

- It is important to note that unsubstantiated and inconclusive cases may be closed, but have potential to be reopened, if additional information is provided. To maintain the confidentiality, Investigators consider these cases as having the potential to be re-opened.
- c. Will management be notified about the allegation or investigational finding?
 - The Investigator will notify the departmental vice president or other appropriate administrator of a pending investigation unless doing so will impact the integrity of the investigation. To maintain the confidentiality of the investigation, management will not be notified about investigational findings, unless they will need to be involved in the Corrective Action Plan.
